

PERRY TOWNSHIP JUROR IS STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Overcome by Affliction in Corridor of Court House While on Way to Jury Box This Morning.

IS HELD UP FOR TIME

Wash Herd and Others Got Full Amount Asked for In Suit Against the Trotter Water Company—Other Notes of Civil Court.

UNIONTOWN, Mar. 31.—Wesley H. Boyer, a juror from Perry township, was stricken with paralysis this morning while on his way to the jury box. Mr. Boyer was serving on the jury which is trying the suit of Charles Lawson against the West Penn. Railway Company.

The entire left side of the victim was rendered helpless and he was taken to the Moran Hotel, where he is in a serious condition. As a result of this misfortune the suit was held up for two days. At the end of that time the case will either be continued or other arrangements will be made.

In the suit of Wash Herd against the Trotter Water Company, a verdict was returned this morning awarding the plaintiff $2,500, the full amount asked. This is for damages resulting from the defendant company running its pipe line across the plaintiff's property.

The case of W. R. Miller against Thomas Lowry was taken up this morning before Judge Umbel. The plaintiff asks $25 for connecting a soda fountain in the defendant's place of business.

William L. Gans, defendant in a suit brought by John Romanekich, agreed to a verdict in the plaintiff's favor for $250. This suit was a dispute over a property transfer.

UNIONTOWN, March 31.—An unusual development has arisen in the application for a license for the Central Hotel, Uniontown. There are two applicants before the court for the same place, each claiming possession of the premises. This interesting condition resolved itself yesterday into the filing of a remonstrance against one of the applicants by the other applicant.

James Moran, former Uniontown hotelkeeper, purchased a few months ago the Central Hotel property from H. L. Rankin. After securing the transfer of the property he presently was in time in making application for a liquor license, his application being No. 1 on the license docket for 1909. The tenant of the premises for some years past has been W. J. Houston. He leased from H. L. Rankin and wife, the former owners. Houston filed his application for a license at the same hotel shortly after Moran did, his number on the 1909 docket being No. 3.

The remonstrance filed yesterday was in behalf of Houston, about 30 years of age. It sets forth that Houston holds a lease on the hotel premises until May, 1910, secured from H. L. Rankin. It is also alleged that Moran is not a resident of Fayette county, but has his home in Wilkensburg. It is also alleged that Moran held a license in this county for years and that when his license for the Moran house, Uniontown, was transferred November 9, 1908, to H. L. Rankin, Moran declared to the court that after 25 years of service in the hotel business in Fayette county, he desired to retire.

Attorneys A. D. Boyd and Smith and Brownfield filed the remonstrance in Houston's behalf and a supplemental petition of Uniontown residents. Attorney L. H. Fraisher is handling Moran's application before the court. It is anticipated that this case will receive an interesting hearing before the court when the license list is taken up next Monday.

A remonstrance against the granting of a brewer's license to the Pittsburgh Brewing Company's Uniontown plant was filed yesterday in behalf of the Pittsburgh Coal Company by Attorneys Howell, Sturgis and Morrow. The remonstrance is based upon the failure of the brewing company officials to remove from their service Anton Zink, a beer agent at Smock, and Joe Boscok and William Moore, Zink's drivers, against whom the coal company made complaint some time ago. The court is asked to withhold license from the company at least until these employees are disposed of. Superintendent William Goodfellow signed the remonstrance.

Before Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen and jury yesterday afternoon the case of Charles L. Lawson against the West Penn. Railway Company was taken up. Lawson was the only witness heard yesterday. He told of being struck in the face with a whiskey bottle tossed by a passenger on a street car in February, 1908. Lawson boarded the car at the switch in front of the Blackstone building and when he entered, he said, there was quarreling among the passengers at the front of the car. He recalled the conversation between

Mrs. N. J. Mayers of Wheeler is this morning bemoaning the loss of twelve chickens which were stolen from the coop last night. On going to the coop to feed the chickens this morning Mayers discovered that out of thirteen fowls only one remained. The thieves gained an entrance to the coop by prying open the lock.

West Means and John Barro and declared Means threw the whiskey bottle. This is about all he remembers. He was taken into the office of Dr. E. R. Ruseley, where he was treated and then sent home.

Lawson said his lip was cut and he had great trouble with his face and teeth for some time. He is chauffeur, working now for George Whyel. At the time he was injured he worked for the Standard Automobile Company. He said his income has been from $75 to $125 per month.

In the case of the D. J. Kennedy Company against Louis S. Rosenberg, the jury yesterday returned a verdict of $119.55 for the plaintiff.

A voluntary non-suit was taken in the case of Solz Scherab & Company against Andy Brezozos.

The case of J. W. Sanner against the Connellsville Construction Company was settled.

The case of S. S. Snyder against J. B. House was continued.

In the case of Lena Leonard, administratrix of the estate of Eli Leonard, deceased, against John B. Leonard, the court handed down an order dismissing the motion for a new trial.

Upon the trial of the case the court gave binding instructions for the defendant. The case involved profits alleged to have been made by the defendant through the use of boats that had been towed by his father. The administratrix claimed to recover under an oral agreement, while the defendant produced a written agreement that he was to have the use of the boats in return for caring for them.

The court made an order appointing J. H. Eller as tax collector for Belle Vernon borough in place of W. V. Luce, who was elected, but who failed to qualify. The petition for Eller's appointment was presented by Attorney T. P. Jones in behalf of certain residents of the borough.

SQUIRE APPEALS FROM BUTTERMORE'S DECISION

Graham Refuses to Pay Fine on Truancy Charge Made Against Him.

Squire G. E. Graham, John Friel, Mike Heilmansky, John Germanak and Vincent Heilmansky, all of Dunbar township, were the defendants in truancy cases tried last evening before Squire J. M. Buttermore of the West Side. The information was made by C. C. Allen, the township truant officer.

The defendants were charged with violating the school law. Constable William Shrum made the arrests.

Sample Cochran, teacher of the Monarch schools, where the defendants had been neglecting to send their children, was present and stated that the children of the defendants had not been attending school regularly this winter. Squire Graham stated that his son, Thomas, had been kept out of school on account of sickness, while Friel claimed that his girl assisted in the work at home. The case was quite a lengthy one and after hearing a number of statements from the defendants Squire Buttermore gave his decision in the case. Friel, Graham and the two Heilmansky's took an appeal from Squire Buttermore's decision and will take the case to court.

Germansky paid a fine of $2.00 and the costs. Truant Officer Allen is making a strenuous effort to compel the obeying of the school law and several similar cases will be tried tomorrow evening.

TITLE PASSES TOMORROW ON ISABELLA PROPERTY

Believed That this Proposition Is Related to the Proposed Merger.

Title will be passed tomorrow for the 3,000 acres of coal land in Luzerne township Fayette county, formerly owned by J. V. Thompson of Uniontown, and recently sold by him to the Isabella-Connellsville Coke Company. This is said to be the last large tract of coal which was owned by Mr. Thompson personally in this county.

The price is said to have been around $2,000 per acre and the purchasing company which is incorporated under the laws of West Virginia with a capital of $7,000,000 has stated in its prospectus offering bonds to investors that it proposes to erect 1,600 ovens to develop the tract.

Since the proposition to merge coke plants has developed, it has been assumed that this company would join in the proposed combine with several persons connected with the Isabella-Connellsville incorporation are identified with the proposed merger and there is little doubt that there is a relation between the two propositions.

ARRESTED IN UNIONTOWN; IN CONNELLSVILLE LOCKUP

Ed Weames Does Not Understand How He Arrived Here But He's Here.

All Right.

Ed. Weames, a Point Marion glassworker, was arrested in Uniontown yesterday but woke up in the Connellsville lockup. He does not understand how it happened and was given 48 hours by Burgess Evans to think it over.

According to Weames he was at the County Seat yesterday and had some money on him. He met a "friend," who offered him a drink from a bottle. Only dimly does he remember subsequent events. He does recall that a policeman picked him up on a street car, but he does not understand how he landed in Connellsville. An inventory of his personal belongings showed that $23 was missing.

D. W. Martz of Kittanning was arrested on a charge of drunkenness by Officer R. B. Stillwagon and was given the usual sentence.

THIS IS TIME OF MANY MOVES.

April First Sees Numerous Flittings From Place to Place.

TROUBLES OF VICTIMS MANY

Gold Meats Are the Feature; Also Cold Houses—Mashed Finger and Stiffened Muscles Are Also Prevalent—Houses Are Mops Plentiful.

This is the period of annual flittings among those known as renters, as in this section it is customary to make leases from the first of April each year. There are the usual number of flittings and the moving vans are busy hauling household goods from place to place.

It is a season of discomfort for those who find it necessary to make a change of residence. Not only is it a change of residence, but it is also a change of discomfort. The carpets must be taken up and in many instances, thoroughly beaten until all the dust, or most of it anyway, has been expunged. Then the mirrors must be taken off the bureau and childrens' to eliminate the chance of bringing seven years' bad luck by smashing looking glass.

After the carpets and rugs have been taken up and beaten, they must be laid again and that is no easy task. Of course, baby's working harder than usual in the office and doesn't get home any earlier, than necessary.

There is a big demand for old newspapers to put under the carpets.

Five laying them; also to wrap the china and cut glass treasures. In addition to the multitudinous details the family cat or dog must not be forgotten, and it is no small task to make these familiar with their changed conditions.

At both the West Penn Electric Company and Fayette County Gas Company they are busy keeping track of changes that are made. Meters must be read, and in some cases installed, while others are removed when there are no tenants in sight.

Although there has been some demand for houses this year the supply is better than usual. For the past several years it has been practically impossible to secure suitable residences; but there is a better chance this spring than for some time past.

This period of cold, lichen, cold houses, mashed fingers and stiffened muscles will last for a week or so. Then things will settle down for another year when the flittings are resumed.

LOTS OF TALKING.

Representatives Getting Tired of Tariff Talks, But 80 on the List.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(Special.)—Although most of the members of the House are heartily tired of the long drawn-out debate on the Tariff bill, Representative Olmstead, committee chairman of the whole, still has down nearly 80 names of members desiring time in which to speak.

It is understood there will be no further granting of the privilege of unlimited time. Many of the speeches this afternoon and tonight will be held down to 20 minutes.

AN EPIDEMIC

Of Diseases Raging in Redstone Township, It Is Believed.

Three deaths within 24 hours have been reported and there are at least 25 cases of "black measles," scarlet fever, diphtheria and other ailments.

PAY $80 PER ACRE FOR WEST VIRGINIA COAL

Tract of 400 Acres Disposed of Near The Pennsylvania Line, Morgantown Men Buyers.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 31. A deal was closed yesterday by W. K. Hatfield, William Pomeroy and A. L. Delaney of Mount Morris for the sale of the Pittsburgh vein of coal underlying a tract of approximately 400 acres near the Pennsylvania State line in Battelle district. The purchasers are all Morgantown people, Governor W. E. Glasscock, S. F. Glasscock, Judge Frank Cox, George C. Baker, M. L. Brown and Colonel Thomas E. Hodges being the new owners of the coal. The deal was made for investment purposes and the property will be held by the purchasers pending the development of the Monongahela coal fields. The price paid for the coal was $80 an acre, or about $32,000 for the entire tract. The price is just a little under the regular quotations on the Pittsburgh vein in Battelle district.

The coal underlies a farm that was owned by the late C. G. Blaker and is now held by the heirs of the Blaker estate. The farms are all connected, the coal lying in one tract. The deal has been pending some time but was not consummated until yesterday.

MORE CHANGES ON B. & O.

Despite Repeated Denials It Is Said More Changes Will Take Place.

Despite denials by executive officials in Baltimore, it is persistently reported that many changes are to be made on the Baltimore & Ohio system soon and that "practical" all departments will be affected. This report has been circulated several times during the past three months and has caused much comment in railroad circles.

There is said to be considerable friction among the higher officials regarding earnings and expenses and rumor has it that one of the officials offered his resignation several days ago.

Twins, Birthdays Different

To be twin brothers and yet to have birthdays on different dates will be the unusual experience to be enjoyed each year of their lives, by the two little boy babies born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Scholer of Latrobe, one of the babies having been born on Saturday, March 27th, and the other having been born twenty hours later, or on Sunday, March 28th.

ad overtime trying to whip Connellsville in line and used numerous "bluffs" at the same time assuring the local directors that Uniontown was all right.

When asked, point-blank, on several occasions by the Courier if Uniontown had posted its forfeit, Mr. Groninger each time became profuse in his assurances that Uniontown was all right and that Connellsville was the only town which was lagging.

It is believed Uniontown will come to the front. The County Seat has had baseball for three years and each time has had a pennant winner. When the fans there and that the "angels" have deserted, they will likely come to the front, but the appellation of "Millionaires" will probably not fit the team this year.

REYBURN PENSION BILL PASSES SECOND READING

Cambria County to Have an Additional Law Judge by Legislative Action.

United Press Telegram.

HARRISBURG, March 31.—The Reyburn Soldiers' Pension bill passed the House, second reading, this morning, unamended. Fourth of Wayne county, proposed an amendment by reducing the monthly pension from $6 to $5, and also to eliminate the clause barring benefits to veterans having an income of $500. He further proposed to make the veterans eligibility 90 instead of 60 days.

The bill passed finally today creating an additional law judge for Cambria county.

After having been defeated in the House the Representatives this morning proposed that the Lydick school code be reconsidered and placed on the postponement calendar.

A resolution to "continue" it two years by the commission which defeated the bill was offered but was withdrawn in order to give the contending interests an opportunity to get together on a bill that can be passed this session.

TEST AND FALSE ALARM TURNED IN

One Was to Try-Out Apparatus the Other Was Evidently a "Joke" on the Department.

Two alarms of fire were turned in yesterday but neither time was there a fire. The first alarm was sent in from the box at the corner of Fayette and Eighth streets and was merely a test alarm to see whether the whistle was working. The whistle responded in great style. The "wild-cat" was not sounded.

About 9 o'clock an alarm was turned in at Box 314, corner of Pittsburgh street and Patterson avenue. The Fire Department responded promptly but no blaze could be located, the alarm was a false one and the firemen are trying to find out who turned it in.

Trout Fry Arrive.

John F. Kooser and Anthony Brookman went to Mill Run this morning with about 5,000 trout fry, which they will place in the streams near that place.

UNIONTOWN FALLS DOWN ON FORFEIT

"Angels" and Millionaires Have Only 48 Hours to Raise the Dough.

After the Uniontown papers dashed off columns after columns of near-humorous when Connellsville was having its troubles raising forfeit money to get a baseball team here this year, it develops that the only town in the circuit which has not posted its $500 is Uniontown. The sports of the County Seat have a bad case of cold feet and President Groninger has given them just 48 hours to post their money.

President Groninger is apparently to blame for this situation. He works

ONE NOT IN DEPREDACTIONS

Officer Russell Stillwagon Catches Them and They Show Him Where the Supplies Are Hidden—Will Probably Be Reprimanded and Allowed to Go.

For breaking into the Fourth Street School building on the West Side Monday night, William and Harry Otemeyer, Daniel Campbell and Francis McCusker and George Bunnell, all of the West Side, and aged about nine years respectively, were arrested yesterday by Policeman Russell Stillwagon. All the boys with the exception of Bunnell were given a hearing yesterday afternoon before Squire P. M. Buttermore of the West Side on a charge of malicious mischief made by Henry Rhodes, President of the West Side School Board. At the hearing it was learned that Bunnell was not one of the party who was in the school building. The decision in the case was postponed until next Tuesday.

Late Monday evening the boys gained an entrance to the school building through a window which was not securely fastened. After disfiguring the blackboard with ugly pictures the boys ransacked the teacher's desk and the closets where the school supplies were kept. When arrested the boys accompanied the officers to the place where they had concealed several pensknives in the property of the teachers and about three dozen of lead pencils valued at five cents each.

On Sunday night the same boys broke into Britt & Scary's plumbing shop on Fourth street, West Side. The secured a number of rubber stamps and several tape measures.

PROF. BYRON KING DELIVERED GOOD LECTURE

"Our Work and Our Mission" Subject on Which He Discoursed Last Night.

The First Presbyterian Church was filled to its utmost capacity last evening when Prof. Byron King of Pittsburgh lectured under the auspices of the Sunday School. Prof. King was born and reared near Mt. Pleasant and has many friends in this vicinity who seized the opportunity given them last evening to hear him deliver a very eloquent lecture. Every seat was filled and chairs were placed in the aisles for the accommodation of the large and appreciative audience.

Prof. King had for his subject, "Our Work and Our Mission." The subject was well and thoroughly discussed and there was not one dull moment during the lecture. Prof. King's first and main point was that we all should have a work to do and the second point was that we all should love our work so as to take the interest in it which we should. The lecture throughout was beautifully illustrated by poems and the reading of many beautiful stories. Prof. King left last night for Clifton, N. J., where he will lecture this evening.

PRESIDENT TAFT AND HIS "GOLF CABINET" AT PLAY ON THE CHEVY CHASE LINKS

Still another distinguished golfer with a military title was present, but invisible was "Colonel Bogey." It is hardly necessary to say that the "colonel" still holds the highest score in the "cabinet." Speaker Cannon also is a candidate for a place in the "golf cabinet." He says he was a good shiny player when he was a boy and imagines he could soon master golf.

GET RID OF CATARRH

It is a remarkable fact that hundreds of thousands of apparently sensible men and women go on year after year suffering agony and humiliation, when a very simple and pleasant remedy would rid them of this detestable disease catarrh in short order.

Hyonol (pronounced High-o-mel) will give the sufferer from catarrh joyful relief in five minutes.

It is such a remarkable cure, and so positive in its action that A. A. Clark goes so far as to guarantee it to cure catarrh or money back.

And people who have cured themselves of catarrh with Hyonol will tell you that it is a most excellent remedy.

A complete outfit, which consists of a hard rubber nozzle funnel, a bottle of Hyonol, and a unique dropper for filling the funnel, only costs one dollar, and if an extra bottle is after wards needed the price is only 50 cents.

Hyonol is a healing, antiseptic balsam taken from the myrsine eucalyptus trees in the heart of the forests of Australia, where diseases of the respiratory tract are unknown.

All the sufferer has to do is to inhale the antiseptic vapors of Hyonol over the inflamed parts where the germs are entrenched, 3 or 4 times a day.

Soon the inflammation will subside, the discharge of mucus will cease, the itching, spitting, sneezing and bad breath will be a thing of the past, and all the strength and all the energy previously used to combat the ravishing hordes of the persistent and destructive germs, will go to build up your health and put new blood, muscle and ambition into you.

Complete outfit $1.00. Mail orders filled by Booth's Hyonol Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Hyonol sold in every town in America.

About a year ago the family moved from Mt. Pleasant to a farm in the Cumberland Valley. Deceased survived by her husband and seven small children. She was a sister of Ida, Mary and William Berryhill of Mt. Pleasant and of J. M. Berryhill of Scottsdale.

SLOT MACHINES UP AGAINST IT.

Burgess of Scottsdale Orders
Devices of Chance

OWNERS GIVEN ORDERS TODAY

Alverton Physician Cited To Show
Cause For Negligence In Reporting
Births—Mrs. A. G. Murphy's Will Probated.

SCOTTSDALE, March 31.—All games of chance here are up against it, particularly those known as "slot machines" of which there is quite a flock spread through town, with a strong appetite for nickels and pennies. Burgess R. F. Ellis has taken the matter up with Chief of Police Frank McCudden who is visiting the various places that have slot machines today and giving the proprietors the following notice from the Burgess: "You are hereby notified, in accordance with Borough Ordinance No. 35, that on and after April 1, 1909, all persons having or operating slot machines, or any device whatever, will be dealt with according to law." The ordinance to which reference is made says that "if any person or persons shall set up or establish, or cause to be set up or established in any house, room, out-house, tent, booth, arbor or other place whatsoever, any game or device of address or hazard with cards, dice, tickets, wheel of fortune or any other instrument, article or thing whatsoever at which money, or other valuable thing may be played for, or staked or betted upon, the person or persons so offending in either of the enumerated cases shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than two hundred dollars nor less than ten dollars. That any apparatus, device, or instrument used for gambling may be seized and held until the defendant proves his innocence; and if he be found guilty that the aforesaid articles may be destroyed." There are quite a lot of slot machines in operation throughout town as they are nearly everywhere and these will fall into the clutches of the law if they do not quit activity.

Failed to Report Birth.
The Registrar of Births and Deaths for Scottsdale Borough and East Huntingdon township had Dr. A. S. Sherrick of Alverton cited to appear before Justice of the Peace S. G. Steiner of Scottsdale to show cause for not reporting births more promptly. The State law demands that the attending physician report all births within 10 days and in the absence of a physician then the midwife, or father or mother. It seems that some physicians and midwives have been negligent in complying with the State's requirements, and the State Registrar has demanded that vigorous measures be taken in the future to cause a compliance with the law.

A Day of Snow Flurries.
It was perfectly scandalous the way the snow flurries impressed themselves on the town yesterday, beginning early in the morning and visiting the place at almost any occasion. The snow storm at noon was one of the most blizzard-like that has come to town in this season, and made everything white with snow, while the clouds threw a pall of darkness over the town. In the afternoon there were several more of them that made it difficult for any new hats that may be in town to venture from under cover. None of the snow storms was of the lasting kind, however, and soon disappeared. Today was another sample of flake weather.

Back Home Again.
W. E. Shaw, who came here from Uniontown a few weeks ago to act as Superintendent for the West Penn Company, has been instructed to report back to Uniontown. A Mr. John son of Greensburg will come here. Mr. Shaw made many friends in the brief time he was here who will be sorry to see him leave.

A New Bible Class.
Rev. M. C. Curran, the evangelist who has been conducting services in the Fletcher & Grant building at the ministerial meeting this week suggested the formation of a Bible class for the new converts at those services in many of the churches of town, and the proposition met with hearty endorsement from the other ministers present. There are about 60 from the mission meetings. Rev. Mr. Curran announced, and a meeting will be held tonight at the mission to elect the officers for the class. The Y. M. C. A. was looked upon by all the logical class meeting place and the time on Tuesday evening, the next meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening of next week.

Probated the Will.
J. I. Murphy and Miss Catherine Murphy were in Greensburg yesterday probating the will of their mother, Mrs. Araminta Goucher Murphy, who died here several days ago. The two named are made the executors of the will and the estate amounts to about $10,000. George B. Shupe and J. T. Stadler are the witnesses to the will which was made in February, 1903.

Mrs. Robert Duncan Dead.
Widowmaster W. E. Henry received word yesterday afternoon of the death of his cousin, Mrs. Robert Duncan, a sister of John M. Berryhill, of Pittsburgh street, and is away at the funeral. Until about a year ago Mr. and

MISERY FROM AN UPSET STOMACH AND INDIGESTION WILL BE ENDED.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate, sour, undigested food or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in the mouth and Stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diaphepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure the worst case of Dyspepsia, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from Stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspepsia trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve a sour stomach or indigestion in five minutes. Get a case now and cut one Triangulo after your next meal. They are harmless and taste like candy, though each contains powder sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a hearty, healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your Stomach and Intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diaphepsin cranks, as some people will call them; but you will be cranks about this splendid stomach prescription, too, if you ever have indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach trouble, and get just one Triangulo of Diaphepsin.

Mrs. Duncan and family lived at the old home place at Mt. Pleasant and then removed to beyond Harrisburg.

Borough Attorney Frank B. Folk was in Greensburg spending the day yesterday on legal business connected with the Borough and his practice.

DISCUSSION OF THE TARIFF—THE LEGISLATURE

BATES PLEADS FOR PROTECTION.

Says Cheap Goods Make Cheap Men and Low Wages.

COX OF OHIO ON OTHER SIDE

Declares Witnesses Before Ways and Means Committee Told Untruths That They May Continue System of Robbing the Consumer.

Washington, March 31.—Representatives Bates and Burke of Pennsylvania, and Kitchin of North Carolina, argued prominently in the tariff debate in the house. Mr. Cox pleaded for a reduction in the duties on sewing machines, bicycles and computing scales. Referring to various witnesses before the ways and means committee, Mr. Cox said:

"A prohibition tariff implies such a lust for gain and gold that these men come here and swear their souls down to the gates of hell in order to get a government license to rob the people." Representative Bates, in closing a plea for a protective tariff, said:

"Let us not be led astray by the delusive cry for cheap goods. Cheap goods mean a cheap man. It is a principle as old as the hills that when goods are cheapest men are poorest."

CONGRESSMAN BATES.

The most distressing experience in this country or in all human history have been when everything was cheap—when measured in money but dearest when measured by labor. The best unit of value is what a day's labor will produce.

"The low tariff bills of 1832, of 1842 and 1857 brought about cheap goods in this country, but what else crippled the ability of the American people to purchase and ruin and disaster followed. The main question for us to solve is not how cheaply can we purchase goods, but what is the state of the market—the market for labor and all that labor produces."

Congressman Burke Gets Excited. Mr. Kitchin's remarks led him into a spirited triangular discussion with Messrs. Dyer (Texas) and Graham and Burke (Pa.). He mentioned in particular, "that eternal of protection." He declared that Pittsburgh suit to congress representatives those who would vote for special interests.

This utterance aroused Mr. Burke, who denied its accuracy. "Will you name the time," Mr. Burke demanded, "when I ever mentioned the name of the steel trust?"

"Well," replied Mr. Kitchin, "the theory is that you will protect the big and the strong."

He said that Mr. Burke, honest and a patriot, was a victim of a system, and that "the protected industries of Pittsburgh sent up so much smoke that the Pennsylvania member was looking through dark glasses."

Mr. Kitchin declared that the final tariff bill would be made by four men, two in the house and two in the senate. "You know who they are," he exclaimed, facing the Republicans.

"That is the bill you are going to swallow," he said, "and for that reason they have put things in the Republican platform to please those western Republicans and they are going to take it off in the senate so you can go before your people and say, 'Well, now, we have done the best we could. We passed it in the house and that dogged senate just simply ripped it up.'"

MANDAMUS REFUSED

No Legal Remedy For Negroes Expelled From College. Lansing, Mich., March 31.—Two colored students dismissed from Grand Rapids, Mich., veterinary college, following the objections of white students to their presence, were denied a writ of mandamus by the supreme court to compel the college to let them pursue their studies. The court held that a private corporation could not be compelled to fulfill obligations under a contract.

TO GO TO ENGLAND.

Washington, March 31.—President Taft, speaking at a dinner tendered to President Charles W. Elliot of Harvard university in this city, announced by direct inference that Dr. Elliot had been tendered and was considering the appointment of ambassador to Great Britain.

Senator Root of New York had indicated the selection of Dr. Elliot earlier in the evening and President Taft made the announcement stronger by declaring he endorsed all that Senator Root had said.

Dr. Elliot was the first speaker of the evening and was immediately followed by Senator Root, who after relating several anecdotes on Mr. Taft, paid a forceful and eloquent tribute to the retiring Harvard president. He fully swept his audience off its feet when in concluding he declared:

"Should it so befall Dr. Elliot to be accredited as the American ambassador to one of the great courts of Europe, before whatever monarch he shall stand there we shall know our great republic in all the good qualities of its power and sincerity of action, in all its glorious ideals and aspirations, is represented by a man, an American gentleman, a scholar, a sage indeed."

It was nearly midnight when he arose and he declared he would not give Senator Root another opportunity to joke about his having kept a dinner company until 4 o'clock in the morning. The president devoted himself entirely to a eulogy of Dr. Elliot and the ideals of education and the fostering of the university spirit for which he has stood. He referred to the Harvard president as the head of the educational movement of the last forty years. In concluding President Taft caused another great outburst of cheering by declaring that he endorsed all that Senator Root had said in his tribute to Dr. Elliot.

"And especially do I share," said the president, "every word that Senator Root has said as to what may happen to Dr. Elliot in the future."

COFFEE MUST BE FREE

So Decides Senate Finance Committee After Investigation.

Washington, March 31.—Recognizing that Brazil is powerless to suspend her export tax on coffee because this tax is indissolubly linked with her foreign debt, the senate committee on finance has decided to strike out of the Payne bill the countervailing duty provision.

If the Payne provision is adopted in effect it would place a duty on coffee imported from Brazil equal to the export tax assessed by that country and the consumer would be compelled to pay the difference in cost. The responsibility of such a result could not be shirked, it was said, and congress would have to answer to the people for this assessment against a necessity of life.

The senate committee is seeking information about the alleged American syndicate—grottoed with having four million bags of coffee in storage to be held for a rise in price, which would follow the passage of the Payne bill in its present form. A member of the committee said that no fortunes would be made by the members of such a syndicate at the expense of the American breakfast table. If the committee on finance can prevent it.

MISSIONARY CONGRESS OPEN

Many Americans Attending Lay Meeting in Toronto.

Toronto, March 31.—Many Americans prominent in church work and interested in the missionary movement from the lay side are in this city attending the Canadian national missionary congress, which began today.

Among the Americans taking part in the congress, which is international in nature, are: Messrs. McFee, editor of the Christianian, Dr. P. W. H. H. Severance of Cleveland, Robert E. Spear, J. Lovell Murray and J. Campbell White. The principal address at the congress will be made by Sir Andrew Fraser, formerly lieutenant governor of Bengal, India. Earl Grey, governor general of Canada, is the honorary president of the congress.

Among the musical features of the congress will be the singing of the National Young Men's Christian association quartet, representing four different sections of the United States.

ROAD BILL GOES OVER ONE DAY

Democratic Filibuster in House of Representatives at Harrisburg Against the Pittsburgh-Philadelphia Highway Measure.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 31.—An animated debate and a lively Democratic filibuster against the bill to construct the across-the-state highway characterized the sessions of the house, the not result being that the big road bill was amended and laid over for one more day, while the insurance code, designed to bring the insurance law of the state down to date, was defeated. It was later reconsidered.

The senate held only a short session and concurred in the resolution presented in the house by Mr. Woodward for a commission to investigate the taxation laws of the state. The senate resolution providing for an inquiry by the legislature into all charitable and penal institutions receiving state aid, their manner of carrying out their objects and financial methods was also passed. The trolley bills, which have aroused much opposition in Pittsburgh, were amended so that consent of local authorities must be given before the provisions of the bill can be carried out.

The big school code was reported back to the house and today will be laid before the house for amendment. At that time it is probable that a motion to postpone action for two years will be made. Final action will also be taken on the mine law today.

Among the numerous bills passed finally in the house were two resolutions of far-reaching importance. One authorizes the auditor general to enter suit in the name of the state against the persons responsible for the maintenance of persons confined in insane hospitals. It is estimated that hundreds of persons are under treatment at public expense whose relations are simply able to pay for their care. The other resolution proposes a constitutional amendment to allow Philadelphia to borrow money for construction of subways, wharves, tunnels and other public works, which will yield an income sufficient to care for all fixed charges.

SECOND WIFE TOO COOL

Therefore Ex-Widower Slashes Her Throat and His Own.

Henderson, Ga., March 31.—Because his young wife does not love him as devotedly as his former wife, who died a year ago, was the reason assigned by Taylor Rittenberry for slashing his wife's throat and attempting suicide. Both probably will die.

CUTICURA PROVEN PURE SWEET AND HARMLESS

A New York friend of Cuticura writes the following interesting letter:— "My three-year-old son, after eating put on a box of Cuticura Crackers, ate the entire box of Cuticura Crackers and a box of Cuticura Ointment."

"When a search was made for the box, it was found empty, and the child admitted he had eaten the entire box of Cuticura Crackers. It cured him of a bad cold and I don't know what else."

No more conclusive evidence than the above could be offered that every ingredient of Cuticura is pure, sweet and harmless. If it may be safely eaten by a young child, it can be safely used by the sick, the aged and the infirm. It is expected to attend its application to even the tenderest skin or youngest infant. This feature is shared by mothers and nurses to such an extent that Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have for many years been extensively used throughout the civilized world for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, hair and hands of infants and children from the hour of birth. United Press Telegram.
WASHINGTON, March 31.—Although the Taft administration is not yet a month old, its startling contrasts with the Roosevelt regime are already sticking out like barns on a chestnut. In everything that President Taft does, whether in the line of work or play, politics or religion, exercise of brain or exercise of body, he is the absolute antithesis of the man who is now on the high seas bound for the Dark Continent. The very title Roosevelt is taking is typical of the differences between the two men. Not by the wildest stretch of the imagination could anyone conceive of President Taft forsaking the comforts of civilization for an invasion of the African jungle. Moreover, it is doubtful if Mr. Taft ever killed a living creature knowingly, certainly he has not hunted for many years, and if he indulged in squirrel shooting or musk rat trapping in his younger days, his oldest friends have forgotten the fact. The Roosevelt household goods were scarcely out of the White House before the attaches of the establishment realized that the "old maids" here it used to be. The blue coated police officers at the front door of the mansion disappeared and two tall, chocolate colored negro butlers with white shirts and bows and grey vests took their places. The white man at the door of the Secretary to the President also vanished to make way for a colored man. The stable housing the jumpers, jockeys and gallopers provided for President Roosevelt's use was transformed into a garage, and two magnificent automobiles replaced the carriages that had conveyed the White House family from place to place about the Capital. President Roosevelt never acquired a liking for devil women. President Taft fell in love with them on the first night.

From the first day of the administration the manner of handling visitors at the White House underwent a change. The strenuous gave way to the peaceful. Roosevelt shot his handshakes through at the rate of 50 per minute. Taft, when rushed, disposed of 25 or 35. To hurry his business visitors out, Roosevelt would invite half a dozen Senators or Congressmen into his office and, in a loud tone of voice, would discuss the matter of appointing this or that man to this or that job. The statesmen who had expected to buttonhole the President in a corner and "pull out something on the quiet," were glad to get through the conversation in a jiffy, for every other man in the room was sure to go out and tell about it. This expedited things wonderfully, but it hurt the dignity of the lawmakers. That's one reason why so many Senators and Representatives carried paving blocks in their pockets for Roosevelt. When Taft makes an engagement to meet a Senator or a Congressman or any other person, he gives him the time that his business seems to justify; and he does not invite a crowd to participate in the conference. Neither does he jump up from his seat, as Roosevelt frequently did, before the caller had more than half finished explaining his mission and exclaiming cordially, "I'm so glad that you called." The Roosevelt hand would be outstretched, as he spoke the words, and the visitor would find his shoes on the mat outside the door before he was able to repeat his own name.

Of course the Taft method has its drawbacks. It means more hard work, more hours of work, for the President. It means that scores of men who call at the White House do not see the President at all. But those who do get in, so away with a warmer regard for the man at the helm. They believe that the President has taken their stories to heart, and feel that he has, in a measure, assumed part of their burden. Even if he has not been able to grant their requests, he has, at any rate, secured them of his friendliness. In this Taft resembles the late President McKinley. He has, also, many of McKinley's mannerisms, and, like the married Executive, will undoubtedly go down in his

Here is a circus romance redolent of the fresh sawdust of the ring, vibrant with the incessant clamor of the band, panoramic in its ever moving display of clowns, acrobats, horses and captive wild animals. You will read of Polly, the daughter of the circus, and of Bingo, on whose broad back she rode; of the "leap of death" girl; of "Mutter Jim," the boss canvasser, and Toby, the clown, who loved the circus orphan and cared for her like father and mother; of Deacon Strong, who hated a circus, and of Rev. John Douglas, who grew to love a circus girl. You will read of gossip that threatened to divide a pastor and his flock, of Ruth and Naomi, of a show girl's renunciation and of Polly's first and last ride on Barbarian, the circus horse.

CHAPTER I.

THE band of the "Great American Circus" was playing noisily. The performance was in full swing.

Beside a shabby trunk in the women's dressing tent sat a young, wild faced girl, chin in hand, unheeding the chatter of the women about her or the picturesque display of the surrounding objects. Her eyes had been so long accustomed to the glitter and throng of circus "freaks" that she saw nothing unusual in a picture that might have held a painter spellbound.

Circling the inside of the tent and forming a double line down the center were partially unpacked trunks belonging to the performers, masses of satins, lace, artificial hair, paper flowers and paste jewelry. The scent of moist earth mingled oddly with the perfumed odors of the garments heaped on the grass. Here and there high circles of lights threw a strong, steady glare upon the half clad figure of a robust acrobat or the thin, drooping shoulders of a less stalwart sister. Temporary ropes stretched from one pole to another were laden with bright colored stockings, gaudy, spangled gowns or dusty street clothes discarded by the performers before slipping into their circus attire. There were no nailer hooks, so hats and veils were pinned to the canvas walls.

The furniture was limited to one camp chair in front of each trunk, the ill of which served as a tray for the paints, powders and other essentials of make-up.

A pall of water stood by the side of each chair so that the performers might wash the delicately shaded lights, handkerchiefs and other small articles not to be intrusted to the slow, careless process of the village laundry. Some of these had been washed tonight and hung to dry on the ropes as a "freaker," a President who smoothed things with oil rather than the ax.

President Taft has announced that he will abandon the "referee" system in the South. He will allow the Congressmen and the Senators some say in the selection of Federal officials even though they be of the opposite political party. Roosevelt's appointments were made upon the recommendation of a small coterie of Southern Republicans many of whom were not in good odor with the best people of Dixie and whose selections were often obnoxious to Southern sentiment.

Neither will President Taft make so many "personal appointments" as his predecessor. It has been the custom for many years that the oldest politician can remember for the President of the United States occasionally to send a nomination to the Senate and request that it be confirmed on "personal grounds." Until Roosevelt's hand grasped the tiller, these personal appointments were few and far between, for few Executives ever abused the privilege. But he handed in so many of this kind that Senators and Congressmen made serious complaint. Every rough rider that wanted a job, every cowboy that had ever wounded an eagle with the President in the Bad Lands, every odd character that the President had even hunted with, camped with, or ridden with, was provided with a place. If any were displeased it is because they did not apply for a job.

Women whose "turns" came late sat about, half clothed, reading, crocheting or sewing, while others added pencilled eyebrows, powder or rouge to their already exaggerated makeups. Here and there a child was putting her swathed baby to sleep in the cill of her trunk before beginning her part in the evening's entertainment. Young and old went about their duties with a systematic, businesslike air, and even the little knot of excited women near Polly—it seemed that one of the men had upset a circus tradition—kept a sharp lookout for their turns.

"What do you think about it, Polly?" asked a handsome brunette as she surveyed herself in the costume of a Roman empress.

"About what?" asked Polly vacantly.

"Leave 'em alone!" she said in one of her trances, "called a motherly good natured woman whose trunk stood next to Polly's and whose business was to support a son and three daughters upon stunted shoulders, both big and ugly and literally."

"Well, I don't in any sense," answered the dark girl, "and I think it's pretty tough for him to take up with a rank outsider and expect us to warm up to her as though he'd married one of our own folk." She tossed her head, the pride of class distinction swelling high in her ample bosom.

For the future, those of the present administration will be the shortest and most solemn. The only one that has been sent to Congress by Taft, thus far, was that sent to the opening of the present extraordinary session of Congress. It contained just 340 words.

Roosevelt "buted" into every line of human endeavor. Taft is not inclined to worry with problems that do not concern him or his work. Roosevelt glorified in the physical exercise, whether with the boxing gloves, single sticks, horses or tennis racquets. Taft rides a little to keep down his flesh and plays an occasional game of golf to make his blood run freely.

Roosevelt selected certain administrative newspapers in which he put out "feelers" to test the pulse of the country; Taft treats all newspapers alike and does not "play favorites."

Roosevelt preached against "race suicide" and praised the fathers and mothers of large families as the most desirable citizens; Taft believes that there is something better than the mere numerical preponderance of the race, and not very long ago, emphasized his views by pointing out the good that "old maids" may accomplish in the world.

But after all, both are great big, able-bodied, full-blooded, white Americans. Each handles the problems before him in his own way. Roosevelt made good with the people, and Taft gives promise of doing likewise.

Polly of the Circus

BY MARGARET MAYO

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

"He ain't snafu" as he warm up to her," contradicted Miss Eloise, a pale, light haired sprig, who had arrived late and was making undignified efforts to get out of her clothes by way of her head. She was Polly's understudy and next in line for the star place in the bill.

"Well, Barker has put her 'into the 'leap of death' stunt ain't he?" continued the brunette. "Course that ain't a regular circus act," she added, somewhat mollified, "and so far she's had to dress with the freaks, but the next thing we know he'll be putting her in on a regular stunt and be putting her in to dress with us."

"No danger of that," sneezed the blond. "Barker is too old a stage to put up his sleep and his goat."

Polly had again lost the thread of the conversation. Her mind had gone roving to the night when the frightened girl about whom they were talking had made her first appearance in the circus lot, clinging timidly to the hand of the man who had just made her his wife. Her eyes had met Polly's with a look of appeal that had gone straight to the child's simple heart.

A few nights later the newcomer had allowed herself to be strapped into the cumbersome "leap of death" machine which hurled itself through space at each performance and flung itself down with force enough to break the neck of any unskilled rider. Courage and steady nerve were the requisites for the job, so the manager had said, but any girl would have told him that only a trained acrobat could long endure the nervous strain, the muscular tension and the physical ele Toby was intrusted with the brown ash in which the mother had always carried Polly's scanty wardrobe. It seemed to these two men that the eyes of the woman were fixed steadily upon them.

Barker, the manager, a large, noisy, good natured fellow, at first mumbled something about the kid being "excessively" but his objections were only half heeded, for like the others, he was already under the hypnotic spell of the baby's round confiding eyes, and he eventually contented himself with an occasional reprimand to Toby who was now sometimes late on his new. Polly wondered at these times why the old man's stories were so suddenly cut short just as she was so "comfy" in the soft grass at his feet.

The boys who used to look sharp because of their boss at loading time now learned that they might loiter so long at "Mutter Jim" was "Mutter Jim" round for the kid. It was Polly who had dubbed big Jim "Mutter," and the sobriquet had stuck to him in spite of his six feet two and shoulders that an athlete might have envied. Little by little Toby grew more stooped, and usual lines of anxiety crept into the brownish circles beneath Jim's eyes, the lips that had once shut so firmly because tender and tremulous but neither of the men would willingly have gone back to the old euphony.

It was a red letter day in the circus when Polly first managed to climb up on the pole of an unlighted wagon and from there to the back of a friend's sled and pony. Jim and Toby had been neglecting her education, they declared, and from that time on the blood of Polly's ancestors was given Something had gone wrong. They were not philosophers to reason, like Emerson, that for everything we lose we gain something. They were simple souls, these two, they could only feel.

CHAPTER II.

WHILE Polly sat in the dressing tent listening indifferently to the chatter about the "leap of death" girl Jim waited in the lot outside, opening and shutting a small leather bag which he had bought for her that day. He was as blind to the picturesque outdoor life as she to her indoor surroundings, for he, too, had been with the circus since his earliest recollection.

The grass inclosure where he waited was shut in by a circle of tents and wagons. The great red property van was waiting to be loaded with the costumes and tackle which were constantly being brought from the big top, where the evening performance was now going on. The gay striped curtains at the rear of the tent were looped back to give air to the panting musicians who sat just inside. Through the opening a glimpse of the audience might be had, but upon their faunting and shifting uneasily. Near the main tent stood the long, low dressing tent, with the women performers stowed away in one end, the ring horses in the center and the men performers in the other end.

A temporary curtain was hung between the main and the dressing tent to shift out the curious mob that tried to peep in at the back lot for a glimpse of things not to be seen in the ring.

Colored streamers fastened to the roofs of the tents waved and flared in the light air and beckoned to the townspeople on the other side to make haste to get their places, forget their cares and be children again.

Over the tops of the tents the lurid light of the distant red fire shot into the sky, accompanied by the cries of the peaput "bitchers," the popcorn boys, the lemonade vendors and the exhortations of the sideshow splendor, whose flying banners bore the painted reproductions of his freaks. Here and there stood unlighted chariots, half filled trunks, trapeze tackle, paper hoops, stake pullers or other properties necessary to the show.

Torches flamed at the tent entrances, while oil lamps and lanterns gave light for the loading of the wagons. There was a constant stream of life shooting in and out from the dressing tent to the big top as gayly decked men, women and animals came or went.

Drowsy dogs were stretched under the wagons, waiting their turn to be dressed as lions or bears. The wise old goose, with his modest gray mate, pecked at the green grass or turned his head from side to side, watching the singing clown, who rolled up the painted carcass and long neck of the imitation giraffe from which two property men had just slipped; their legs still incased in strips.

WOMAN STOPS LYNCHING

Pleads Successfully That Law Be Allowed to Take its Course.

Chillicothe, Mo., March 31.—The lynching of two men accused of shooting and mortally wounding Marshal Caraway at Jamesport was prevented by Mrs. James Wood, wife of a farmer living near Jamesport.

The men had been wounded by a posse of farmers. A rope had been produced and the farmers were stringing up the prisoners in the yard of the Wood home when Mrs. Wood pleaded with the leader to permit them to take the case to court. She prevailed and the men were taken to the jail at Gallatin, Mo.

"What matter?" The few dollars earned in this way would mean a great deal to the mother whom the girl's marriage had left desolate.

Polly had looked on hungrily the night that the mother had taken her daughter in her arms to say farewell in the little country town where the circus had played before her marriage. She could remember no woman's arms about her, for it was fourteen years since tender hands had cradled her mother from the performers' tent into the moonlight to die. The baby was so used to seeing "mamma" throw herself wearily on the ground after coming out of the "big top" exhausted that she crept to the woman's side, as usual, that night and gazed laughingly into the sightless eyes, gurgling and prattling and stroking the unresponsive face. There were tears from those who watched, but no word was spoken.

Clown Toby and the big "boss canvasser" Jim had always taken turns amusing and guarding little Polly while her mother rode in the ring. So Toby now carried the babe to another side of the lot, and Jim bore the lifeless body of the mother to the distant ticket wagon, now closed for the night, and laid it upon the seller's cot.

"It's all like this in the end," he murmured as he drew a piece of canvas over the white face and turned away to give, and Jim bore the lifeless body of the mother to the distant ticket wagon, now closed for the night, and laid it upon the seller's cot.

Barker was quick to grasp the advantage of adding the kid to the daily parade. She made her first appearance in the streets upon something very like a Newfoundland dog, guarded from the rear by Jim and from the fore by a white faced clown who was thought to be all the funnier because he trusted his neck so much.

From the street parade to Polly's first appearance in the big top had seemed a short while to Jim and Toby. They were proud to see her circling the ring in bright colors and to hear the cheers of the people, but a sense of loss was upon them.

"I always said she'd do it!" cried Barker, who now took upon himself the credit of Polly's triumph. And what a triumph it was!

Polly danced as serenely on Bingo's back as she might have done on the concert boards. She swayed gracefully with the music. Her tiny sandals twinkled as she stood first upon one foot and then upon the other.

Let Me Tell You Something

A woman who is sick and suffering and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is to blame for her own wretched condition.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what these women say:

Camden, N. J.—"It is with pleasure that I send my testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, hoping it may induce other suffering women to avail themselves of the benefit of this valuable remedy."

"I suffered from pains in my back and side, sick headache, no appetite, was tired and nervous all the time, and so weak I could hardly stand. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman—and this valuable medicine shall always have my praise."—Mrs. W. P. Valentine, 902 Lincoln Ave., Camden, N. J.

Erie, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles, and at last was almost helpless. I tried three doctors but they did me no good. My sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has made me well and happy. I hope all suffering women will just give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, for it is worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. Endlich, R. F. D. 7, Erie, Pa.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.
